A MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR...

It is my pleasure to present the 1994-1995 edition of the Montana Manufacturers Directory. The publication is an essential source of information about Montana manufacturers. It offers a wide assortment of products available in-state and I hope businesses will make every effort to use these local resources.

The Montana Department of Commerce is actively engaged in business recruitment, retention and expansion in our state. The manufacturers directory is one way we interact with Montana firms by assisting them with product promotion.

I want to thank the manufacturers who responded to our solicitation. Care was taken by our staff to reach as many Montana firms as possible, however, some may have been overlooked. If your company would like to be included in the next edition, please complete the form found at the back of this publication and return it to the Small Business Development Center of the Montana Department of Commerce. Your name will be added to our database.

I sincerely hope you will find this directory a useful tool in working with Montana manufacturers.

Excellence in Education

Montana has an unwavering commitment to education, as exhibited by its history of high rankings in national comparisons of expenditures per pupil, graduation rates, adult literacy, and college entrance examination scores.

Our high school graduation rate of 84.9% far outstrips the 71.2% national average. Montana students consistently score well on college entrance exams; in 1989, the average Montana score ranked third in the nation. And special needs are met with innovative programs for both handicapped and gifted students.

Nearly 6,000 degrees are awarded each year by the state's institutions of higher education, with the largest number in business and management, education, and engineering. The quality of Montana's post-secondary system is evidenced by the state's production of Rhodes Scholars; more per capita than any other state.

Montana invests in the future.

Snowcapped peaks. Pine forests and clear streams. Badlands and prairies where history was made. Quiet places to refresh the soul and lift the spirit.

Powder perfect downhill skiing at world-class resorts. Summer sailing, blue-ribbon trout fishing, or a challenging round of golf. Opera, concerts, art exhibits, and theatre productions to enrich your evenings.

Modern malls and vibrant, revitalized downtown areas. Exceptional housing in all styles and price ranges. Regional medical centers with state-of-the-art equipment. Low crime, low pollution, low cost of living. No traffic jams--no hassle.

You can't list these assets on the balance sheets, but they attract--and keep--the high caliber of managers and employees you need.

Montana--where quality is a way of life.

Quality of Life

Abundant Resources

Montana industries pay substantially less for energy than do their competitors elsewhere, partially due to the state's abundance of low-cost hydroelectric power. Thirteenth lowest among the 48 contiguous states in fuel and electric energy costs per million BTU's, Montana offers low-cost natural gas for residential and commercial users and special incentive gas and electric rates for some industries. Six regulated power companies and 26 electric cooperatives serve the state. Large reserves also exist to power Montana industries far into the future.

Montana has energy to spare.

Strategically located at the crossroads of the West, Montana lies halfway between Minneapolis and the port cities of Seattle, Portland, and Vancouver--the midway between Denver and Edmonton.

More than 700 intrastate, interstate, and international motor carriers serve businesses on the state's modern and efficient highway network.

Rail transportation is reliable and accessible. Nearly 3,400 miles of track lead to markets in California, the Mississippi Valley, the Gulf Coast, Canada West, and coastal seaports. Intermodal and transloading facilities, the Port of Montana, the Port of Shelby, and Foreign Trade Zone #88 make worldwide shipping to and from Montana easy and cost effective.

Four major trunk carriers and three regional airlines fly into 15 commercial airports. Another 114 public-use airports and numerous fixed-base operators and air taxi services meet general aviation needs.

Montana producers deliver.

Market Access

Worker Productivity

Montana's most important economic resource is its people--hardworking, productive, innovative, adaptable, and still committed to a strong work ethic. There is a large pool of well-educated and skilled workers, dependable people with a "can do" attitude. Wherever Montanans are at work, they produce.

Montana's employers get their money's worth.

Big mountains, big resources, big opportunities, big ideas.*

The technical help your business needs is close at hand in Montana. Assistance in financial packaging, marketing, international trade, licensing, and red-tape slashing comes from the Department of Commerce and other state agencies.

Universities, colleges, vocational technical centers, and other educational institutions offer research services, marketing and management consulting, employee training, engineering help in resolving production problems, and more.

There is a full range of private support services, too--precision machine shops, testing laboratories, computer software development, specialized consulting services, facilities for research, assembly, processing, and finishing.

"Made in Montana" is more than a label. It's a matter of pride.

Technical Capacity

Financial & Tax Incentives

Montana's tax climate is mild and hospitable. There is no sales or use tax. Research and development firms get preferential tax rates and tax holidays. The general corporate income tax rate of only 6.75% is well below the 45-state average of 7.5%. The 1989 Legislature drastically reduced the assessment rates applied to business machinery, equipment, furniture, and fixtures. Inventory and freeport merchandise are tax-exempt.

New business development and the expansion of existing firms are assisted through state loan, bonding, and near-equity investment programs. Tax incentives encourage private capital fund formation and investment. Reduced property tax assessments are available for qualifying new construction or remodeling.

Montana puts its money to work for business.

Visitors to Montana see and experience it as the quintessence of the great American West--colorful, historic, breathtaking.

But there is another Montana, blending the strength and perseverance of the Old West with the vision and vitality of the new. It is an outward-looking Montana, moving aggressively to increase its participation in the international marketplace. The business programs and incentives that Montana offers now are the result of the determination to build a balanced and strong economy for the benefit of not only today's Montanans, but also for generations to come. In Montana, the frontiers of technology and the spirit have been joined.

Montana is a land to match your ambitions.

Accessible State Government

In Montana, easy access to the Governor and other state government officials is a point of pride. It is the rule rather than the exception. For those who desire face-to-face meetings, personal appointments are easily made. The Governor and members of the administration also regularly visit businesses around the state.

And this openness is not limited to the Governor's office. Legislators and local government officials work closely with businesses to resolve problems or encourage expansion.

The state's Congressional delegation is similarly accessible. Most Montanans refer to delegation members by their first names, and letter and telephone inquiries receive quick responses.

In Montana, you count.
